Bullett Proof Prospects are pleased to announce that another of our players, Alex Zegers, has signed with a four year college program in the United States. Alex has signed with Iowa Wesleyan College they are a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) located in Mount Pleasant, Iowa . The mission of Iowa Wesleyan College is to prepare students to succeed in a changing global environment. Iowa Wesleyan is a four year liberal arts college providing quality individualized learning experiences that combine the development of the intellect with adaptive life skills. The school has over 30 majors and academic programs making the choice for Alex very easy, especially when they offered to give him a 62% scholarship.

Alex has been the starting center fielder for the Prospects for the past two years and brings speed, great range and a powerful arm to outfield. These qualities are what attracted head coach Brett Monaghan to approach us about Alex. Alex has been a team captain for the past two years and demonstrates his leadership both on and off the field. He has also maintained an 82% average in his school work which will serve him well as he heads off to college.

Coach Monaghan is looking forward to having Alex with his squad this coming year and competing for a starting job. Brett Monaghan enters his second season as head baseball coach at Iowa Wesleyan College. In 2007, his first year at IWC, Monaghan led the Tigers to a 32-19 record, the school's first ever Midwest Classic Conference Tournament championship, and an appearance in the NAIA Region VII playoffs. It was IWC's first winning season since 1995, and the 32 wins were the third-most in school history. The Tigers' trip to regionals was the program's second straight, and IWC won a game in regionals for the first time since 1966. Monaghan was hired in December 2006 as the 22nd head baseball coach at IWC since 1965. Before coming to IWC, Monaghan served as assistant baseball coach at Marshalltown Community College for five years and was employed as Family Sports Director at the Community Y of Marshalltown. He concluded a six-month position in October of 2006 as Operations Supervisor at The Ripken Experience in Myrtle Beach.

Bullett Proof Baseball wishes to congratulate Alex and wishes him good luck as his college career is about to begin.
